

Transboundary integrated water resources management as a way for increasing water use efficiency in the CA region

Mamatov S., Abdullaev U.V.

The transboundary basin integrated water resources management is presented as a way for increasing water use efficiency in the CA region. The results of Uzbekistan measures on increasing of efficiency of water management are reported. The institutional and technical mechanisms of increasing of efficiency of the transboundary water resources management in the Aral Sea basin are offered.